IARP Treasurer's Report

John Melzger
Treasurer

Through January 2009, with five months left in our fiscal year, we remain on track to finish in the black. Year-to-date, we are approximately $50,000 ahead of budget. This is again largely due to membership revenue exceeding expectations and expenses tracking lower than what we had budgeted. We have also put aside $50,000 into our reserve fund for a rainy day. The IARP Board of Directors and IARP Finance Committee are thrilled with the turn around the association has made, hopefully ensuring our financial future.

We have begun to plan for the 2009-2010 budget. Those who are considered stakeholders have been asked to submit their budget requests by the end of February. Drafts of the budget will initially be reviewed by the finance committee, before being presented to the board of directors for final approval at the board meeting in June 2009. Understanding that many members have cut back on their travel budgets, the association leadership is encouraging the sections to offer more distance learning opportunities to help you meet your educational needs. I trust that you will be seeing more offerings of this type and they will be reflected in the next budget.

IARP Council of Chapter Presidents Report

Dennis Funk
Council of Chapter Presidents Representative

In June of 1989 a single unarmed man in China stepped in front of a moving column of tanks in Tiananmen Square where protestors were being massacred. As the tanks attempted to maneuver around him he continued to step in front of them. This unnamed man was named by Time magazine as one of the 100 most influential people of the 20th Century. This man has not been seen since.

While courage is not generally the case in business or professionally it is an essential attribute of an effective leader. As a professional leader, demonstrate it and encourage it in others and all of your profession benefits. Do tough economic times require greater courage than good times? Maybe for some ...but in my experience courage is a fundamental characteristic of an effective leader...in good times and bad!

In booming times chapter presidents and leadership must make difficult decisions which keep the focus on your membership needs. They take time out of their busy schedule to engage with the membership in a variety of ways to achieve the goals of your chapter as well as those of the association. In less than positive times your chapter leaders keep the lines of communication open with their mem-

Chapter Highlights

IARP Oregon Chapter

The Injured Worker Fund

Michele Nielson
Member, Oregon Chapter

As I read comments on the IARP section listserv from colleagues across the nation, I am awed by the love of this chosen profession of rehabilitation. It is clear that we who continue to do this work are in it not just to earn a living but also to serve our fellow human beings. What stories there are! Our country is experiencing an economic downturn, our clients even more so.

For over a decade, Oregon vocational counselors have contributed to our own 501c3 non-profit organization called the Injured Worker Fund. This fund is managed by one person who has asked to be the point person. This person, Linda Hill now for a few years, has the authority to grant requests of up to $200.00 for an injured worker presently being served by an IARP member. These one-time grants can be for anything to assist the worker to obtain or remain in employment. Examples include glasses, car repairs, tires, dental work, or a driver's license, and the list goes on. Linda receives the request and, on her own, makes the decision and distributes the funds. Periodically she sends letters to our membership to encourage donations, and our board occasionally has fund-raisers to maintain the fund.

We are proud to share with those less fortunate, and we are pleased to share this news with you. Perhaps your chapter would like to do something similar. For further information, please contact Linda Hill @ (503) 224-6808 or llhjca@ipns.com, or Oregon Chapter President Dennis Funk @ (503) 524-9613 or dennis@funktvoconsulting.com.

IARP Georgia Chapter

Cindi Pottinger
Past President, Georgia Chapter (PRSG)

The Georgia Chapter of the International Association of Rehabilitation Professionals (IARP) PRSG held its second annual conference entitled "Delta Worka Compa – Taking the Greek Out of Rehabilitation" on November 15, 2008, at the Marietta Conference Center. This year's list of presenters was even more prestigious than last year, as PRSG was able to secure Donald Peck Leslie, M.D., medical director of the Shepherd Center as the keynote speaker this year. Dr. Leslie is a nationally-renowned expert on spinal cord and brain injury, and we were extremely grateful that he accepted our invitation to speak. His presentation entitled "Alpha to Zeta, It's Greek to Me" proved to be very informative on all aspects of rehabilitation from catastrophic injury.

(pictured left), two of the top professionals in the field of vocational rehabilitation also agreed to present again this year. In a "Point – Counterpoint" style of presentation, Drs.

Weed and Field entertained us with their topic "Critical Issues in Professional Association Activity; The Changing Milieu". In addition to these outstanding speakers, Dr. Fred Mullins, medical director of the Joseph Still Burn Center in Augusta presented "Overview of Burn Injury and Recovery". Dr. Mullins is considered one of the best experts in the country today in the treatment of burn injuries. The Augusta Burn Center is nationally known for its innovative treatment for serious burns. Other topics included "Mission Possible" by William Terrell, M.D. about an incredible technique he has been trained in that is only used in Russia to treat limb abnormalities. There was also a fascinating panel discussion on "Ethics in Case Management" with attorney Mike Rosetti, SBWC Rehabilitation Coordinator Nan Decolaines, Rehabilitation educator Debbie Berens, and LuRae Ahrendt, catastrophic rehabilitation supplier. Finally, Arthur Simon, M.D., plastic and hand surgeon with Shepherd Center (and in private practice) presented on the latest plastic surgery techniques in "Reconstructing David".

Section Focus

IARP Case Management Section

Section Report

Jon Veltri

Case Management Section Representative

The IARP Case Management section had its last board of directors meeting on January 30, 2009. A new and final board member was welcomed, Giles Bronson of GENEX in Nevada. We now have a full board of directors again after the departure of the last chair of the case management section from the CM section board.

We finalized and approved the Case Management Section Policy and Procedures guideline and submitted it to IARP headquarters for further distribution.

Support was solicited from CM Section board member Dr. Pamela Warren to conduct a webinar for the education committee. This was in response to the request from Carl Wangman, IARP executive director, to have each section support a webinar. The webinar, entitled "Behavioral and Physical Disability: Innovations for Managing Complex Disability Issues and Claims," is scheduled for the end of March. I encourage all CM section members to register for the upcoming webinar on March 27, 2009. Dr. Warren is a nationally recognized expert on behavioral health disability issues and their interaction with physical disabilities. I have had the opportunity to see her present in more than one professional venue and her knowledge and approach to learning are unparalleled. Participants will not be disappointed.

In recent discussions, we have been working towards our goal of a combined case management/disability management conference. We decided that all members of our board will participate on a committee to work on various components of this conference. We will be working with Don Shrey, disability management section chair, and we will coordinate combining efforts on this endeavor.

Lastly, we discussed the need to increase traffic and usage on the CM/DM listserv. All board members were asked to bring ideas to increase participation to our next meeting. The next meeting is scheduled for Friday, March 6th at 10:00 a.m. Mountain Time.

The next six months are going to be an exciting time for the CM section as we gear up for the next fiscal year and begin planning the first IARP CM/DM conference. I encourage any interested members to contact me at jon.veltri@genexservices.com if you are interested in volunteering and working on this proposed conference.

News Flash

IARP Education Committee

Deb Holmes
Chair, Education Committee

Traditionally, we have viewed our education and training opportunities as in-person participation but we are now experiencing shifts in how education and training is perceived, designed and delivered. On-line, web-based opportunities are continuing to emerge as they are seen as a viable, valuable and cost-effective to the consumer. The increasing popularity of mp3 players, PDA's, and Smart Phones has provided new mediums for the distribution of distance education content. Already we have seen many on-line degree programs emerge in addition to specialty training geared toward the rehabilitation profession.

A task force has been developed to explore distance learning opportunities for IARP members. The task force consists of Rodney Isom, Estelle Hutchinson, Crisann Schiro-Geist and myself. Our Executive Director, Carl Wangman, is actively participating in these discussions and offering his expertise. The members have experience with distance learning design, instruction and participation, each bringing a different perspective to the exploration process. In the near future, we will be previewing a demonstration provided by a major university and hope to enter into discussions with them to enhance the education and training opportunities we already provide.

As the economy continues to affect our expenditures, we may not be able to attend conferences with the regularity we would like. Distance learning will enable us to move forward with our continuing education and participate at our leisure, within an established time-frame.

IARP recently offered a webinar entitled "Increasing Efficiency Through Office Technology", presented by Mr. Keith Sofka. The next webinar will take place on March 27, 2009, presented by Dr. Pamela Warren. Her presentation is "Behavioral and Physical Disability and Co-Morbidity: Innovations For Managing Complex Disability Issues and Claims. Watch for the registration information on the Web site under IARP News.

bers to ensure that your needs are being heard and decisions, no matter how difficult, are being made with your best interest in mind. This often requires difficult if not brave and bold choices.

I am pleased to report that your chapter presidents have lived up to their roles and responsibilities as leaders of your profession. Despite the pervasive economic troubles of our nation and those specifically over the past year in our association your chapter presidents have been instrumental in helping guide the association with courageous decision making and in effect maneuvering around the obstacles which have come our way. Through their leadership the future of our association is bright. New members are being added each month and a concerted effort is being made to retain our current members as never before. We are ever so close to adding a Canadian chapter to our fold. The best is yet to come.

Although there have not been advancing tanks for them to outmaneuver, some of the decision making of the chapter presidents and the association leadership has been courageous in many respects. Tough, bold decisions have been made and as a result our association and profession is better for it. Your chapter is always in need of courageous leaders and dedicated professionals. Stand up and participate! Your assistance is always welcome.

Welcome New IARP Members

Once again, PRSG was able to integrate the workers' comp related conference to include not only rehabilitation professionals, but also attorneys and adjusters in order to network on the best practices regarding returning to work in the field. In addition, the first annual Larry Huggins Rehabilitation Professional of the Year Award was presented to the first recipient, David Goudelock, M.A., CRC, CCM, CDMS, CLCP. David has been a dedicated professional in the field of rehabilitation for over 20 years. Following the conference, attendees were treated to a luscious Greek buffet and a very entertaining program featuring the nationally-renowned young Elvis impersonator, Harold Schultz. Attendance this year was even greater than last year's conference, with a total of 30 vendors exhibiting.
